

The Rustic Craftsman

Gateway to Fine Woodworking in Spanish Colonial & Santa Fe Styles

Master Craftsman George Barton designs and crafts unique products from fine woods and rugged hardware.

Relying on decades of experience and an eye for fine design, George uses mortise-and-tenon joinery to obtain maximum strength and create an authentic period look.

The results of such attention to design and detail are as much works of art as furniture.

The Rustic Craftsman's most popular designs include doors & gates, cabinets, tables, chairs, and benches. George also brings quality craftsmanship and his unique style to custom projects.

The Rustic Craftsman & Mrs. Rustic Craftsman (George & Paula Barton) relaxing on a rustic bench in front of their vintage 1959 Dalton Travel Trailer in their backyard gypsy camp.

Turn to the back for more woodwork in The Rustic Craftsman Style.

While most vintage Santa Fe and Spanish Colonial furniture resides in private collections and museums, authentic-looking pieces are not unattainable.

See our website to find out just how affordable this vibrant style can be.

To reach The Rustic Craftsman, phone 760-722-7281 or see us online at www.therusticcraftsman.com

Blue Santa Fe Country Cabinet

Red Portal Bench

Punched Tin Cabinet

Rough-Sawn Colonial Table

Humidors & Jewelry Cases

Taos Blue Rancho Bench

El Paso Table & Chairs

Pine Harvest Table

What Are Santa Fe & Spanish Colonial Styles?

The name Santa Fe conjures images of beautiful desert scenes dotted with natural architectural styles. Blending together frontier times with Spanish and Indian cultures, scenes of worn adobe walls, massive carved wooden doors adorned with wrought iron, hand-hewn beamed ceilings, blend into the design we know as Santa Fe Style. The Spanish Colonial revival of the 1900's brought more of the Spanish influence to modern home design. The vibrant colored utilitarian furniture used in Santa Fe and Spanish Colonial homes express the rich diversity that fits into contemporary Southwestern life.